FINGER ACCIDENT

INCIDENT DESCRIPTION:

An electrician was trying to secure a box onto the concrete by hammering a bolt in place. The area was very tight and difficult to work around but he was able to get a grip on the bolt with is hand. During one hard swing he accidentally hit his index finger instead of the bolt. The injury required 5 stitches.

SAFETY RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. By using a pair of pliers instead of his hand to hold the bolt in place the risk of injury to his hand would have been eliminated.

2. Survey the work area to determine if better access is possible.
