+ Challenge
After years of dealing with errors from its previous human resources provider, this property management company was ready to find a partner capable of providing the high-quality HR support and consistent service the business needed to grow.

+ G&A solution
Not only was G&A Partners able to provide the expert and efficient HR solutions the company's leadership was looking for, but they were also able to help the company reduce its annual health insurance costs by 30%.

Their challenge

After years of dealing with problems stemming from set-up errors during the onboarding process with its first human resources outsourcing provider, a Houston-based property management company decided it was time to part ways and bring in a new HR partner that could actually help the company streamline its administrative functions and become more efficient.

Our solution

On the recommendation of its insurance broker, the company decided to take a look at G&A Partners. As one of the largest professional employer organizations (PEOs) in the U.S., G&A Partners is an expert at providing employers with turnkey HR, benefits and payroll solutions that allow them to more efficiently manage their back-office administrative functions.

G&A Partners is also able to leverage the tens of thousands of employees it serves to negotiate health insurance and other coverage from top carriers at rates that are often considerably more affordable than most small and mid-sized businesses can get on their own—something the property management firm experienced in a big way.

Check out their actual health care cost comparison for yourself:

	Renewal Quote	G&A Partners
Cost (Monthly)	$25,077.24	$17,414.81
Cost (Annual)	$300,926.88	$208,977.76
Savings (%)		30.56%

Business impact

While the cost savings on health insurance G&A Partners was able to offer were certainly impressive, in truth it was the firm's commitment to providing a phenomenal client experience that most appealed to the company's leadership team. With G&A on its team, the company now has the high-quality, consistent support it needs to grow its businesses faster and take better care of its employees.
